A College Education.
A story not new, but worth repeating, is once again going the rounds in England. Two bootmakers, whose establishments faced each other in the village high street, were very distinctly rivals. One of them had a son at college and, in the first week of his vacation, there appeared in the shop window the motto: "Mens Conscia Recto." His rival over the way was for some time a little nonplussed, but within a few days he arose to the occasion and there appeared in his window a card bearing the legend, "Men's and Women's Conscia Recti."—Christian Monitor.

Name Made No Difference.
A little miss was visiting at a home where two elderly women were stopping. One had a name easily remembered, but the other had an unusual one. Upon being presented to them the little girl looked pensive for a moment, but she quickly solved her difficulty by saying: "How are you, Drama B and Drama More?"
